

TUAC OECD Internship on Skills and the Future of Jobs

The Trade Union Advisory Committee to the OECD (TUAC) is looking for an intern from February 2016 to develop policy research and policy advocacy positions on the topics of skills development, education policy and the future of jobs in view of rapid technological changes and digital disruption. Compensation and benefits are set according to applicable laws in France.

Location: Paris

The objective of the internship(s) is to assist the TUAC in developing policy research and advocacy activities related to on-going OECD and G20 discussions on education policies, skills and the future of jobs.

Activities: Under the supervision of a TUAC policy officer, the internship will include the following activities:

- Research, data analysis, mapping exercises, drafting of policy briefs and speaking points
- Participation in, and reporting on TUAC and OECD meetings
- Conduct any other tasks to support the above objectives.

Contractual terms:

- Full-time
- 3 months minimum period starting in February 2016 - Possible extension to +3 months if agreement between parties
- The candidate needs to be enrolled in an academic programme during the time of his internship
- Remuneration and benefits aligned with applicable laws in France and, where appropriate, with conditions set by the candidate's academic institution.

Qualifications required:

- Enrolled in a Master's degree or PhD programme in either, education policy – e.g. Comparative and International Education, Learning and Technology, Higher Education; social and economic policy; human or youth development; or international relations
- Very good English skills
- Good research skills (please send in writing samples)
- Interest in the labour movement and international politics.

About TUAC: TUAC is an international trade union organisation accountable to and funded by OECD-based national trade union confederations and represents their interests at the OECD and other international forums, including the G20.

Contact & deadlines: Applications should be sent by December 15 to byhovskaya@tuac.org